GENERAL INFORMATION:

CSAT Shooting Videos should be on line any day now. You can either order them as a DVD or stream them to your computer. Once you view them, if any questions arise that I don't clearly answer, shoot me an e-mail. We are going to shoot an Advanced Tactical Pistol/Rifle shortly and will answer those questions during the filming as an infomercial.

LE CORNER:

I am leaning toward training an LE cadre to teach the Basic SWAT classes for me at CSAT and dropping the prices significantly per student which would still include lodging. My reasons for this are simple.

I want to groom another generation of trainers and have them carry on the tradition. Currently we provide a live fire Basic SWAT class who shoots everyday and we teach officers to work safely around other team members conducting tactical drills all while making safe surgical shots.

One of my goals in the Basic SWAT is to instill in each student the need to support the team and that the responsibility for that lies upon their shoulders. As individuals, they will need to train on their own to develop and maintain the individual skills that will allow them to best support their team. Team leaders do not Have time to stand over individual officers and ensure they do PT, shoot, dry fire and practice their individual hand combat skills. Team Leaders need the training time allocated each month to work on collective team and organizational skills.

With that, I will consult or work with a course each day, but not work the entire day. This allows me to lower the course cost as I can now schedule other two day courses on the weekends before and after the Basic SWATs to help offset costs.

The instructors I select will have been using and teaching my methods for years and are all current LE tactical officers and trainers and leaders in their departments. This will allow me to pop into modules, run, shoot and interact with the students along with maintaining a quality control of the course.

MONTHLY PERSPECTIVE:

It is tough to know where to begin this month.

The destabilization of the corrupt regimes in the Middle East is a world matter that I hope our country's leadership is up to handling. Never has there been a time where internally, the peoples within those countries have risen up to shape a new form of government. I just hope that our leadership has the common sense to help the peoples of these countries shape a better and productive future. I think taking a religious course of action for these fragmenting nations would be two steps backward as it would lead to more restrictions and repressed freedoms and economies. I just hope someone, somewhere in our government seizes the opportunities to guide the emerging leaders of these nations without the current arrogance of our administration.

Internally, Wisconsin and the fleeing Democrats have been in the news recently. Personally, I believe they should be removed from office and held criminally accountable if possible. If a soldier who is serving their country goes AWOL (Away without Leave), they will be put in the stockade.

As for the president meddling in state politics, he should butt the hell out and understand his days in office are numbered with the next election looming. Teachers that fail to return to the classroom should be fired. Hire ones that want to work and that are not as self-serving and greedy. Union dues should not automatically be taken out of state paychecks. This seems to be illegal as it shows that state jobs are automatically tied with unions. State workers should volunteer the money. This way Unions actually have to work for it.

The President in helping out his union friends across the U.S. should take a back seat to what is happening in the world. I am trying to remember another president in history that has failed as miserably as the current one by either ignorant overt actions or failing to seize initiative when opportunities have presented themselves. As for the Democrats, it seems that they cannot take a step forward today without screwing .

same spot, so we consolidate them. We beefed up a few individual berms and kept the scrambler intact.

We are looking at putting a 9 station sporting clay range on the 110 property side. My intent is to have it open on Saturdays to civilians and Sundays to club members. During the week, station 9/10 will be open to club members for practice.

Also, with the help of Eric and David, we were able to plant about 4,000 pine trees in the bottom. The bottom's soil content is supposed to be ideal for pines.

Should an agency or group wish to rent the facility, feel free to contact us for rates. This includes the ranges, new property, classroom and bunkhouse.

CLASSROOM/ LODGE:

NONE AT THIS TIME.....

EQUIPMENT:

I have been looking at purchasing training folding knives for several of my classes to be use as prop and for dedicated knife training. The price of the training folders is about the same as the real ones. So I experimented. I took a James Williams Hissatsu folder I have been carrying for years and ground it down and painted it blue. It works great. As a side note, I tried to break off the tip by wedging it in a crack in between two pieces of driveway concrete at the barracks. Instead of breaking, it pried one side of the concrete block up which looked to weigh 60 plus pounds. I used a bench grinder to make the adjustments to the blade. This has been a tough and reliable knife and it is the best value for the money I have found.

Leadership and Training For the Fight/The Tactical Trainer

I am working on the final draft of the new book and it will be around 400 pages. It is on track to be out in July of 2011 and is available for preorder from www.amazon.com It will also contain the “The Tactical Trainer.”

The original “Leadership and Training for the Fight” will be available exclusively through www.authorshouse.com for those wishing to purchase it.

More books stacking up...

CLASS PAYMENTS

You will have a slot in the course when I receive payment for the class. In the case of an agency, when they officially request an invoice. I have had too many individuals not show up lately and I intend to put a stop to it.

I would prefer you send a check as the credit card costs for processing are substantial.
